

San Jose beaches, 13K/6H

Suggested starting point: Parking place along the road towards Playa de Los Genoveses.

The walk starts in the outskirts of San José the “capital” of Cabo de Gata.

The large and famous playa de Los Genoveses (2K long) is soon to be seen and almost directly the route turns off to the inland and a walk around the hills to be seen in the distance.

This part of the walk is completely flat until you reach Playa De La Media Luna a small beach. Climb the hill ahead of you and see the spectacular view of the cliffs below. Now the walk return but along the hilly coastline and the beaches Playa de La Media Luna, Playa del Mónsul, Playa del Baronal etc. The walk is quite steep and if you have problems with heights it is not for you. The hills are not very high max 100m but there are several of them along the coast. The path is partly marked (blue/white) but mostly not, so it is a little bit tricky from time to time to find the most convenient track. The views are spectacular and remember to bring your swim suite. There are several caves to explore along the track.
